Current mood: aggravated

All right freak who reads my journal uninvited... I'm making it private now.

If you want to know about your son.. ASK, he's here, right were you saw him last!

BTW, hospitals cost a lot... you could help by PAYING FOR SOMETHING!!

but i guess i fall into the list of not on your friends list. so i will say hi, in case i didnt say it before, and i guess if i dont get added to your friends list then i probably wont be seeing what you write .

take care

Sorry that was a comment for my son's father who apparently has been reading my journal. I just found it odd that he would go by that means to find out what I am doing (rather stalker like) instead of just calling and asking me how I'm doing, or how his son is doing.

ok,
well anyway my journal has a lot of photos i take of things in florida in case you are intersted, i take a lot of photos whenever i can,

take care

if i see you added me as a friend then i guess you liked the photos or what i write,

bye for now

Ok... take 3. LiveJournal is terrible about handling errors. My response is 13K characters, about 11K more than a comment can contain - but here is the link (again) to what I had to say:

"Today, April 14th, two weeks after that remark I finally read your journal. The incident that provoked someone telling you that I "Read your Journal" was the result of seeing my son was injured and not recieving medical attention on SHADES 'friends' journal... A cross-post from you. ...(more)"

http://www.shadowdancers.com/t/vp\_reply.html

For those of you already reading the above thread, you are currently involved in a libel instance and should be aware that this reply constitutes the 'other side of the story' that you are not being told. Repeated requests to cease this slander and avoid further criminal actions have been ignored, so I am providing this response after much abuse.

To my knowledge, I am UNAWARE that my child is in the HOSPITAL. Things like this being kept from me are the very reason this has gone to court. The expenses of the hospital costs were 100% paid last year to my knowledge - and if new expenses have been incurred no effort to inform me has taken place. I am not welcome in my son's life by his mother, despite claims to the contrary made in an effort to obtain public sympathy. The details are in the website.

If this post is suddenly removed, you will see what I am up against. That makes placing the context on a seperate host even more useful, although it is the direct result of limitations in the Live Journal system.

The "FREAK" in question: a.k.a. - The Asshole. Mr. Asshole. JERK. And a long list of explicitives 2 year old girls should not be subjected to by their mother.

After typing (and retyping this 3 times trying to get LJ to take it) I got the URL wrong.

Part 2 of 2:

And there's not much more to say.

Futhermore, I was told the night you went and told my "friends" at the church that you saw my journal.. prior to today. So don't be lying to me. Show your true colors for once. Hiding behind, "woe is me" isn't going to help you. Get over it. He's fine, in fact, you can ask those who cared to come and see him. I'll see you in court in May. I believe you still have the number and address here, so like I said, if you care to see him you are more than welcome to call and ask if you may stop by. I NEVER said you weren't allowed here, and you know it. You can play games James, but everyone sees through you.

The court order says exactly that. Maybe you didn't read past the demand for money when you signed it, but that's what it states - I am barred from initiating phone or direct visitation with you or the children. I'm sick of your lies, your threats, your use of my only child to extort money from me, and the manipulative plays at making yourself out to be the victim after taking the actions that you did (including airing your problems to everyone about me online instead of to me even once).

This sympathy act is disgusting. You are acting like I 'HAVE' anything to give my son (financially) - or that I know of ANY bills (which I do not beyond a court fee I owe you and cannot afford to pay). I am eating only at the mercy of other people and do not even have money for gasoline to make the trip to see my son - though I know I would find it if I were not confident you would 'treaten me with arrest' again for wanting to spend time with him. Your bragging to your friends that "I have no right to my child" doesn't bode well to me, nor accounts of drinking, the BDSM community leadership, the rotation of your boyfriends, etc.

The rages, the fits of anger, the times you physically hit me, hit your daughter, and broke things in our apartment do not leave you in a position of trust to raise my son. You can say I feel sorry for myself. That's not true... I feel sorry for our son. Your desire to carry this forward like you have something to prove ends my promise to you. If you are looking for a fight, you will get it in court. Your attitude more than demonstrates the damage you are probably doing already to our children. Perhaps if you had TOLD your daughter's father that he HAD a child, he would be here with me.

I have been pursuing a solution to support him without extreme measure. This childish tirade of yours ends my promise to do anything so kind despite my former word.
